Earlier today, I received the attached three documents generated by R3 and forwarded to HQ on Friday. There's a press release and communications strategy in support of EPA's Phase III WIP Expectations document for the Chesapeake Bay TMDL. R3 plans to release the "expectations" document tomorrow.

Any issues here? This seems pretty close to what was sent around and you all reviewed in April. I'm adding Anna and Owen for their awareness and in case they have anything to add. Thanks so much!

Ladies – our announcement of the Chesapeake Bay Phases III WIP Expectations is back on (you may recall, we had shared info back in April but things got stalled as conversations with the states needed to occur).

We are targeting the announcement for next Tuesday, the 19th.

Attached are three docs:

1. PR
2. Expectations document that will be posted online (there is a year we're waiting to plug into the 1st paragraph but I don't want to wait for that before sharing these with you.)
3. The Communications Plan.

Our RA is anxious to get the materials approved by early Monday so actions can be taken in preparation for Tuesday's rollout such as getting our IT folks to post the "document" on the web (not live until Tuesday) and made 508 Compliant etc.

Please let us know if you have questions we can answer – and if it's possible to get the docs reviewed and approved by Monday. (All three docs were shared previously with you. They have been updated with new language or nuancing as a result of the recent discussions with the states but overall, they remain very similar to what you had reviewed previously and for which you had provided edits...etc.)

Thank you!

joan
